

ROBERTS LONDON

Roberts, Miss London Top CHS Class of '73

Mark Culwell, principal of Corsicana High School, has announced the two top Seniors of the Class of 1973.

Valedictorian is John D. Roberts, son off Mr. and Mrs. Sam B. Roberts, Route 2, and salutatorian is Cheryl London, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack London, 1200 Columbia Circle.

Roberts, a native of Corsicana, was in the Collins Middle School Band and was voted "Friendliest Ninth-Grade Boy". He graduated from Collins with the second highest average; he also served as a member of the Student Council.

In Corsicana High School, Roberts served three years on the student council, was treasurer of the Spanish Club, secretary of the Ecology Club, and a member of Senior Men's Club, Ltd. He was a member of the A Capella Choir and was in the musical "The Unsinkable Molly Brown."

He was a member of the All-region Choir and was first alternate to the All-state Choir. Roberts was also voted by his classmates "Most Talented Senior Boy", and was a National Merit Commended Student in the top five per cent of all high school seniors in the United States.

Miss London moved to Corsicana from Kaufman at the age of three. She attended Bowie School, Collins Middle School, and Corsicana High School. She had the highest average when she graduated from Collins. She was in the band for two years and a drum majorette in the ninth grade.

While at Corsicana High School, Miss London was president of the Senior Girls Club and co-president of the Junior Horizon Club. She was a second lieutenant of the Blue and Gold Brigade and a Lions Club Good Citizen for two years.

She won the DAR American History Award, and was the Honor Society's Outstanding Sophomore Girl. Miss London is the recipient of a scholarship for academic excellence awarded by Texas A&M University and a $100 scholarship awarded by the Dallas Chapter of the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants.

Both Roberts and Miss London plan to attend Texas A&M University in the fall.

Thanks, Coach

'Corsican' Dedicated To Principal Culwell

Corsicana High School Principal Mark Culwell—completing his first year at the helm of the school that has seen three different leaders in as many years—got an indication of his standing with the student body this morning at the annual awards assembly when it was announced that the 1973 "Corsican", school annual, had been dedicated to him.

There were about 155 general awards given in the fields of athletics, leadership, clubs, music, journalism, special service, and agriculture.

Departmental awards were given to Bill Anglin and Tommy Adams in art, Sherry Foster in business, Suzanne Thompson in English, Claire Balcom in science, Marilyn Miles in homemaking, and Brian Roberts in math.

Olga Ovalle, a junior student in American history, was the recipient of the DAR Award. National Honor Society President, Mike Montfort, presented awards to the "out-standing sophomores", Debbie Hickson and Ben Aldama.

Academic awards for the highest average this year went to Lynda Murphy, freshman; Robert N. Jones, Jr., sophomore; Claire Balcom, junior; and Robert Moore and David Sprinkle, seniors.

Highlighting the awards presented by the Student Council were those for outstanding service to students at C.H.S. given to a patron, a teacher, and a Student Council member: the James L. Collins Scholarship Fund; Mrs. Linda Prindle, and Becky Morris.

The climax of Honors Day came when Debbie Beamon, editor of the Corsican, made public the dedication of the annual.

Local Firm Gets $121,057 Water Line Contract

By BETTY JEAN CLAY
City Editor

The City Commission, in a special meeting Tuesday, awarded a contract to the low bidder, Watkins Construction Co. of Corsicana, for construction of a 14-inch ductile iron water line with modifications which reduced its original low quotation from $127,937 to $121,057.50 as recommended by City Engineer Tom Longley.

The 8,659 foot line will connect the Lake Halbert water treatment plant to the existing 12 inch water line on East Highway 31.

After tabulating six bids received May 15, City Engineer Longley reported to Mayor Sue Youngblood and Commissioners GERALD Nichols and P. D. Fullwood, that Watkins was $13,000 lower than the next bidder on the alternate calling for reinforced concrete pipe, bidding $117,424, and was $8,00 lower than the next bidder on the alternate calling for ductile iron pipe at $127,937.

Longley pointed out that reinforced concrete pipe is difficult to tap and small taps do not hold well. He said reinforced concrete pipe is not as strong as ductile iron, "requires more expensive embedment, and has a smaller inside diameter." Longley said ductile iron pipe has 7.51 per cent more area capacity than reinforced concrete.

Longley said the embedment can be removed from the ductile iron bid at a savings to the city of $2,475, and the bore casing could be reduced to 24 inch for ductile versus 42 inch for reinforced concrete for a savings of $4,030.

"Also, the $375 select sub-base to be used on the gravel road crossing could be deleted," Longley told the Commission, which would reduce the already low bid of $127,937.50 for ductile iron to $121,057.50 with Watkins agreeing to the modifications in a letter. For these reasons, the city engineer said he recommended awarding the contract to Watkins on the ductile iron bid, pointing out that this brought the ductile iron bid to $3,633.50 more than the lowest bid for reinforced concrete.

City manager Russell said he was familiar with the successful installation of both types of pipe and had called a staff meeting of Willard Davis, utilities director, and Dick Ballenger, public works director, and they all had agreed with City Engineer Longley in his recommendations the City can achieve successful installation with the ductile iron pipe.

Two pipe manufacturing representatives spoke in favor of the city accepting the bid alternatives that would use their types of pipe. James H. Bailey, sales representative of

million feet of reinforced concrete pipe and put it in on-jobs in Texas, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Louisiana, and the "closest to home is right here in Corsicana." Bailey told said Corsicana has a 16-inch reinforced concrete water line installed in 1952 so Corsicana has had 21 years experience.

In that length of time, he said, the company has had time to improve the quality and the company and cities utilizing it have gained new experience in installing the pipe. "It's a proven commodity and doesn't require any more care or caution in bedding than any other type," Bailey said. He noted that as far as tapping is concerned, Gifford Hill has a tapping crew that spends every day helping city crews learn how to tap and a trained crew that goes from job-to-job helping contractors install the pipe.

Jordan R. Wray, sales representative for U. S. Pipe, said his company has been manufacturing cast-iron pipe since 1898, and making ductile iron pipe since 1960, describing it as "second generation pipe" that includes the strength and corrosion resistance of cast-iron pipe. Wray said in the past 12 years his firm sold 50 million feet of ductile iron pipe and "we have had only two reported pipe breaks." One of these, he said, occurred in Alaska where the temperature was 25 degrees for 27 days running and there was no snow cover for insulation.

Corsicana is not eligible for any federal aid on this water line project, one of the projects in the bond improvement program, according to Russell.

Revealing Fruitcake Secrets

By ROB MECKEL
Sun Staff Writer

Singing, music, remarks by "comedians", cheerleader yells, and the appearance of a bikini-clad special guest highlighted the quarterly Chamber of Commerce Fun and Fellowship Breakfast at the Navarro Junior College Student Union Building Thursday morning.

About 150 members and guests attended the meeting which Chamber of Commerce Executive Secretary Rex Carpenter said is held "to have fun and inform the people of what the Chamber is doing." The breakfast was sponsored by Collin Street Bakery.

The sound of eating and quiet conversation which began at 7 a.m. were drowned-out when the new Corsicana High School Cheerleaders, uniforms and all, paraded into the building and displayed their cheering talents.

Master of Ceremonies Ned Polk and his vocal assistant Jim Stephenson seemed determined to rouse those Chamber members not accustomed to waking up for early breakfast. They followed-up the cheerleader performance by introducing an eye-opening girl in a bikini, Jan Jones, who helped Polk in the presentation of gag gifts. Herb Silverberg at the organ provided the music during the breakfast program.

In traditional "TV game show" style, Polk called up several members and guests and presented prizes including a bubble gum bucket, fruit preserves, cigars, a frisbee, and others.

Both Polk and "Roving Interviewer" Stephenson poked fun at local politics and businesses with off-hand remarks and by calling upon Chamber members and guests to answer questions.

One victim was Postmaster Bill Galloway, who walked up to be interviewed as Silverberg played "Old Gray Mare" on the organ. Stephenson inquired about the "speedy" mail service these days and asked how long it takes a letter to get from Barry to Blooming Grove. The Postmaster joined in the fun and commented that from Barry it would go to Corsicana, to Dallas, to Hillsboro and eventually end up in Blooming Grove.

Polk and Stephenson also touched on the controversy concerning the proposed expansion of the Planning and Zoning Board. After Stephenson's interviewing of Don Marett about "secret meetings", Polk commented that the next P&Z meeting will be held at Tiger Stadium "to avoid crowded conditions".

Polk also noted that Corsicana Daily Sun Editor Sam Pendergrast, who is currently directing a community play entitled "The Rainmaker" has announced the name of his next play selection entitled "Secret Storm" with the cast consisting of members of the local school board.

Other entertainment during the breakfast included singing by Neilla Kerley and Ronnie Maxfield, leading performers in the recent high school play production of "Unsinkable Molly Brown." Anne Young played the piano as they sang.

Other performers included the singing of little Linda Kay Sykes while her father, Hudine Sykes of Corsicana, played the guitar.

The 1973 Miss Corsicana, Molly Kent, sang twice during the breakfast.

Toward the end of the program, Buddy Shaw, Maurice Pollock, T.C. Curtis and L.W. McNutt, executives of Collin Street Bakery, dressed in baker uniforms including tall hats, walked into the meeting room and proceeded to reveal the "secret ingredients" of their world famous fruitcakes. They displayed containers of crude oil, sawdust, kerosene and plaster of paris, then McNutt commented that John Crawford's job at the bakery is to punch the holes in the fruitcakes.

On the serious side of Chamber business, President Don Bowen reported that he and three other men, Blake Gillen, County Judge Rob Dunn and Pct. 2 Comm. Arlon Simmons returned Wednesday from a trip to Washington, D.C. where they sought support to keep funds available for Trinity River development projects. He said about 130 people from the Trinity River Basin were there to support development programs for the river.

"The general feeling coming away from it was that things look better," he said.

Bowen asked members and guests to write their congressmen and seek support for the continued appropriation of funds for development of the Trinity River.

Tornado Takes Heavy Frost Property Toll

FROST — A tornadoe caused about $50,000 in damage in around Frost last night. Navarro County Deputy Sheriff Bryan Dunagan said the twister hit about 8:15, leaving a definite path of damage which included a grainery, a home, some barns and a truck, though no one was injured.

The most extensive damage occurred at the J.O. Williams Grainery in Frost, where Clifford Williams told Dunagan that the total cost of the destruction will be between $30,000 and $40,000.

Besides the destruction of several barns in the area, damage was also reported at the Apelino Ybarra home about a mile west of town. The Ybarra home suffered some damage to its roof and had some windows blown out.

The truck that was damaged belonged to Douglas Clifton. The damage occurred when it was blown off Highway 22. Clifton was uninjured.

Greek Leaders Thwart Coup

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — The Greek army junta announced today that it had blocked an attempted coup by two retired admirals and officers from three navy ships.

The government said the attempt was scheduled for Wednesday morning, but it got wind of it and arrested the two admirals at their homes before the plan could be executed.

One of the admirals was Constantine Engonopoulos, the navy chief of staff when the army seized power in April 1967. The junta retired Engonopoulos after it took control.

50 Collins Awardees Announced

Fifth graduating seniors of Corsicana High School were awarded full $1,300 Jim Collins Scholarships Tuesday night by the Board of Trustees in a final interview session with student applicants and their parents.

This is the largest number of full scholarships ever awarded, according to Joe Seale, who works with the board on administering the scholarship program. Last year there were 64 Collins Scholarships awarded, but some of those were partial scholarships.

The board received applications from 75 of approximately 130 students eligible by ranking in the top third of the class scholastically.

Recipients were notified they will receive the scholarships when they and their parents met with the school board in the CHS auditorium for a final interview session last night, Seale said.

Offered scholarships were: Carol Anderton, James Andrews, Ricky Baggett, Carol Bittner, Carolyn Bowden, Betsy Bower, George Brown, Sandra Brown, Cathy Coffey, David Coley, Pamela Conn, Sally Curington, Bernis Davis, Mary Delgman, Pamela Dent, Cathy Dockery, Roger Dover, Danny Elliott, Clara Farmer, Sherry Foster, Rhonda French, Robert Harper, Robert Harwell and Eddie Henry.

Production Manager Named at Daily Sun

Charles Hardin, 38, former assistant production manager at the San Antonio Express & News, has joined "The Daily Sun" as production manager, according to Art Keeney, president and publisher of The Sun.

The new production manager has more than 20 years of newspaper production experience. He has been instrumental in conversion of Harte-Hanks newspaper from hot metal production to the modern photocomposition production. Before joining The Daily Sun, Hardin had been associated with the Express & News since 1956, but spent almost a year with the Corpus Christi Caller-Times in 1972 assisting in their conversion to photocomposition returning to San Antonio in November, 1972.

A native of Henderson, Texas, he began his newspaper career there as a newspaper carrier boy at the age of 11. He then progressed through distribution and pressroom departments before joining the Wichita Falls Record-News in 1953, and joined the San Antonio newspapers in 1956.

According to Keeney, the new production manager will be in direct charge of all areas of production including scheduling, planning, budgeting and purchasing and the day-to-day operations of the photocomposition, platemaking and press departments of the newspaper.

He will also be responsible for maintenance of the Sun's plant and equipment.

In addition to managing the production of the daily newspaper, the new production superintendent will be in charge of scheduling and producing the considerable volume of commercial printing handled by The Daily Sun.

Hardin and his wife, the former Elizabeth Pratt of San Antonio, live at 533 Oakridge Dr. They are the parents of a son, Elvin Ray, 13, who graduates this Spring from St. Gerard's High School in San Antonio.

Angus Beer Decision Expected in Austin Tomorrow

Whether the sale of beer and wine can legally continue in the town of Angus will be decided Thursday at an Alcoholic Beverage Commission hearing in Austin, according to Joe Darnall, director of hearings for the Commission.

The hearing is set for 10 a.m. in the main office of the Beverage Commission, located in the Sam Houston Office Building. Darnall said the meeting was called by ABC administrator O.N. Humphries. The Commission's hearings officer, Robert Sparks, will function as a judge at the hearing and Darnall will function "like a prosecutor" in presenting a case for cancellation of Angus alcoholic beverage permits, the hearings director said.

Darnall said any decision to cancel beer and wine selling permits of the four dealers in Angus will be on the grounds of whether the location is authorized by law for the sale of alcoholic beverages.

Contacted by The Daily Sun, the owner of Mac's Quik Stop, Harold McElhenney, said he will attend the meeting to argue for continuation of the beer and wine business in Angus. "We don't feel like we've had our day in court," he stated. "We're going to try to stay in business. We feel like we're right."

McElhenney, whose business is probably the principal beer outlet in Angus, said he will be represented at the Thursday hearing by his attorney Julius Jacobs. The primary argument to be presented, according to McElhenney, is that "our place and manner of conducting business is a credit to the community and surrounding area."

"I think we'll have a fair hearing," he continued adding, "we'll abide by their (the Beverage Commission's) decision."

ABC Hearings Director Darnall said, "I can't say right off hand whether the sale of beer would be halted immediately" if the Commission judges it is being illegal in the town. "It would be one of the things to be determined at the hearing."

"Actually, what we will be deciding will be whether to revoke the permits," the director added. He said the Commission will also have to determine how to dispose of any Angus beer and wine now in stock, if the permits are revoked.

Vegetable Prices Expected To Drop

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Housewives can look forward to lower vegetable prices this summer despite damaging wet winter weather in the nation's "salad bowl," California growers say.

"Between the middle of June and the beginning of July, production should get back to normal, and we'll have some pretty cheap stuff," said Leslie Hubbard of the Western Growers Association.

But until July 1, prices are expected to remain at the high levels that have prevailed all spring in the wake of a disastrous siege of winter weather in California.

California grows 70 per cent of the country's lettuce, 70 per cent of the canning tomatoes, 35 per cent of the fresh tomatoes, 40 per cent of the broccoli, 40 per cent of the cauliflower, 50 per cent of the celery and 40 per cent of the cantaloupes.

Vegetable growers were late getting their winter crops planted, and production was severely curtailed.

Lettuce is particularly sensitive to weather conditions. Cold weather means a shorter growing day, smaller heads and smaller yields per acre. Wet weather delays planting. In a dry year, the grower must pay more for a greater amount of irrigation water. Hot and humid weather brings bigger insecticide bills.

Lettuce hit a peak of more than 50 cents a head in some stores this spring but is likely to drop to 25-30 cents, according to growers. The same trend is forecast for most other vegetables.

Rogers Receiving Quiet Reception in Latin America

BRASILIA, Brazil (AP) — Perhaps the most striking aspect of Secretary of State William P. Rogers' trip through Latin America is the quiet reception he is receiving.

Hundreds of university students did demonstrate against the United States in Colombia, and a car and a U.S. flag were burned in Venezuela. But otherwise, the first two-thirds of his 17-day tour of eight nations has been noticeably uneventful as far as protests are concerned.

"I have not seen one hostile act or gesture in the whole hemisphere," Rogers told a group of U.S. Embassy personnel here in the Brazilian capital Tuesday.

Police have been on the scene almost constantly as he moved through Mexico City, Managua, Caracas, Lima, Bogota, Rio de Janeiro and Brasilia. And his route was changed from the airport in Bogota.

But police are always on the scene in Latin America. More important, they have had little to do during Rogers' appearances.

Everyone remembers the violence that marked then-Vice President Richard M. Nixon's South American tour in 1958 and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's in 1969.

By contrast, Rogers' tour so far has been a piece of cake.

The tense moments experienced by his security men have been caused by hair-raising motorcade through swarming spectators in Managua and through a huge traffic jam following a soccer game in Rio.

"Maybe it's because I'm so bland," he said last week in Bogota by way of explaining the serenity.

The real reason seems to be that he is taking a low-key approach, stressing that Washington is ready to meet any Latin American country half way and that he feels almost no problem between people or countries cannot be solved by quiet discussions.

As he put it during a press conference in Bogota: "I can't be sure, but probably the fact that I am making this visit—the first of its kind in 40 years by a secretary of state—is, appreciated by most people."

Zepeda Murder Trail Expected to Wind up Soon

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP) — The defense was expected to rest its case today in the San Benito strangulation murder trial of Antonio Rios Zepeda Jr.

Rios Zepeda, 20, of San Benito, is being tried on a charge of murder with malice in the April 11, 1972, slaying of Maria Norma Delgado, 15, of San Benito. He is also charged in the death of Patricia Segura, also 15.

Defense lawyers Joe Cisneros and Johnny Dominguez expect to rest their case today, but did not say if Rios Zepeda, a migrant laborer, would take the witness stand.

District Court Judge J. R. Alamia said that if the defense rests today as expected, he would work with lawyers Thursday on the jury instructions. He said that would mean the case would go to a jury of seven women and five men sometime Friday.

Much of Tuesday's session, the ninth day of testimony and first full day of defense testimony, was devoted by the defense to attempts to discredit a statement Rios Zepeda allegedly gave officers in which he said he killed the girls after "something came over me."

A Pan American University professor and four high school teachers testified that Rios Zepeda probably could not have understood many of the words in the constitutional rights warning on the statement form.

Dr. George J. Garza of Pan American University testified that some of the words in the warning "are not commonly used words."

Under cross examination by Cameron County Dist. Atty. Fred Galindo, Dr. Garza admitted that he had never met or talked with Rios Zepeda. He said he could only base his opinion on what he thought the average 18-year-old Mexican-American who dropped out of school in the ninth grade would understand.

Enhancing Highway Beauty

Members of the Ivy League Garden Club pose with cannas the club set out Monday around the N. Hwy 75 Business Route approach to Corsicana as their project in the Chamber of Commerce beautification campaign called "A Beautiful Corsicana Begins With Me." The club also planted climbing rosebushes along a nearby fence and Thursday the Ivy Leaguers will complete their beautification project by planting shrubs and flowers along the median where the highway divides into four lanes just north of town. Finishing off the canna planting are, left to right, Mrs. Robert Mauer, club President; Mrs. James Cross, vice president, and Mrs. Herb Schledwitz, immediate past president. Ivy Leaguers Brighten Highway Entrances

All members of the Ivy League Garden Club will don work clothes and turn to Thursday evening in completing their project to beautify the North Hwy 75 business route approach as the club's part of "ABC Campaign-A Beautiful Corsicana Begins With Me."

Mrs. Robert Mauer, new club president, said the Ivy League garden enthusiasts started their project Monday evening when members carried lawnmowers, rakes and tools and mowed a strip along the shoulder at the Corsicana city limits sign and planted cannas around the marker and planted climbing rosebushes along a nearby fence.

"We picked up trash along the highway, mowed and raked, as well as planting the cannas and rosebushes," Mrs. Mauer said. All members of the club will go out Thursday at 7 p.m. just beyond the city limits where the highway divides and complete the project to beautify this highway approach to Corsicana.

Members will plant shrubs in the dividing median, 10 wax leaf ligustrum and five pittosporum donated by Woolworth's along with the already planted rose bushes.

"Along with these shrubs members will set out flowers they donated and we will start at the top of the hill working down planting cannas, lillies, iris, petunias and phlox," Mrs. Mauer reported. She said the State Highway Department and had agreed to water the plants and flowers to keep them growing.

Mrs. Jack Smith is chairman of the project to beautify the highway and members of her committee-Mrs. Gene Johnson, Mrs. Robert Thurston, and Mrs. James Cross-are being assisted by all club members in the planting program.

New K. Wolens Manager

Stanley R. Kallmeyer, who assumed his duties as manager this week of K. Wolens Dept. Store, looks over the store's ads in the "Big C Days" supplement of The Daily Sun. No doubt he's getting ideas for next year's sales promotion already. (Sun Staff Photo by Larry Warrington)

S. R. Kallmeyer Takes over As New K. Wolens Manager

K. Wolens' Dept. Store is under the helm of its new manager, Stanley R. Kallmeyer, it was announced today by Dean Milkes, vice-president of the Corsicana-based department store chain.

Kallmeyer assumed his duties Monday as manager. A resident of Dallas for the past year where he had been in business for himself, Kallmeyer spent the previous 18 years in Baltimore, Md., where he was executive vice-president of the Cannon Shoe Co., a coast-to-coast chain of retail shoe stores.

He was with the firm more than 35 years, starting as a salesman in Tulsa, Okla., and rising through the ranks as district manager, sales manager, vice-president and executive vice-president.

A native of Miami, Okla., Kallmeyer was graduated from high school there and attended the University of Oklahoma for one year before going to work with Cannon Shoe Co.

Kallmeyer said his retail sales career has been his life. "I have no outside interest except for work."

In Baltimore, he was a member of Har-Siani Temple.

His family consists of a son, Daniel Kallmeyer, and three grandchildren all living in Dallas.

FOLKS DECIDE DIRT

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The federal appeals court here ruled Tuesday that it doesn't take an expert to determine what's obscene and the issue can be left up to judges and juries.

The en banc, or full court, decision brought strong dissent from 7 of the 15 judges, who said the ruling could leave First Amendment rights hanging on the prejudices of jurors and appellate judges.

'Rainmaker' Scenes Presented to Lions

Four cast members of the Corsicana Community Playhouse's upcoming production of Richard Nash's "The Rainmaker" presented scenes from the play at the noon luncheon of the Lions Club Tuesday.

Mrs. Pat Rice, production manager, explained that the play takes place in Texas and centers around the H. C. Curry family, which is faced with two problems—the drought and an aspender daughter.

The four cast members include Robert Shaw, who portrays the sheriff; Gene Rice, the deputy sheriff; Guy Rushin, the father; and his daughter, Lizzie, is portrayed by Mrs. Carolyn Cooper.

The play is directed by Sam Pendergrast with Mrs. Nancy Roberts as assistant director.

The play production nights are May 31, June 1-2.

Tickets may be purchased for $2.50 at the P. S. Pharmacy located at Navarro Mall Shopping Center, Daichos Jewelers, and Corsicana National Bank.

Guests of the club included Ben Spalding, Drew Gillen, Ronnie Butler, Mrs. Joe Nussbaum and Mrs. Chester Sprinkle.

First Baptist Dedications Set

The dedication services for the completely renovated 1924 sanctuary building of First Baptist Church will be held three Sundays beginning June 3, according to Rev. Robert J. Potts, pastor.

Three former pastors who will take part in the dedication festivities include Robert Wooding, pastor of Bluegrass Baptist Church in Hendersonville, Tenn. who will speak June 3;

Dr. W.M. Shambarger, First Baptist Church of Tyler, who will speak June 10; and Dr. J.I. Cartledge, vice-president for development at East Texas Baptist College in Marshall, who will speak June 10.

Houston Strike Threat May Find Compromise

HOUSTON (AP) — A court suit by a grain elevator operator attacking the Port of Houston Authority for allowing union members into the port to picket a compromise settlement today.

Tuesday attorneys for the port and the Louis Dryfus Corp. asked State District Court Judge W. Elvin James to continue a planned hearing until today, saying they were working out terms for a possible agreement.

The suit, if successful, could shut down operations at the Port of Houston, lawyers for the authority say.

Dryfus is asking the court to stop allowing members of the International Longshoremen's Association access to dockside at the grain elevator they lease. The union has thrown up a picket line between the elevator and ships, stopping the loading of grain.

The dispute came about after Dryfus leased the publicly owned elevator for 10 years starting May 1, then told some 60 I.L.A. members employed at the elevator they must accept 25 per cent pay cuts.

A spokesman for the port authority said union leaders have told them if they are not allowed to picket ships at the elevator, they will throw up pickets at all port gates, stopping all shipping at the nation's third-busiest port.

The Port of Houston is moving most of the grain sold to Russia in the recent massive U.S.-Soviet grain deal. The Dryfus elevator is one of four at Houston and handles about 20 per cent of the total.

OPPOSE BUSING

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A 25-member Texas delegation led the way here Tuesday for a strong antibusing stand by the National Parents Teachers Association.

Convention delegates voted 605-353 to approve a legislative proposal opposing "involuntary assignment of students to achieve racial balance."

A spokesman for the organization noted that the proposal must be ratified by at least 31 state organizations before it becomes part of the national PTA's legislative policy, but said delegates also approved an antibusing resolution that goes into effect immediately as representing the views of the convention delegates.

INSOMNIAC'S BOOK PUTS YOU TO SLEEP

LONDON (AP) — A stockbroker in Surrey fighting a sleepless night likes to fancy himself a sensuous bumble bee buzzing from blossom to blossom in dewy meadows of dawn.

The buzzing, in particular, he finds most soothing.

A vicar in the West Country in search of sleep delivers last Sunday's sermon from his pillow and usually corks off in less time than anyone in the congregation did.

Then there's the suburban housewife who tries to count all the a's in the Lord's Prayer, and the chap who replays his toughest golf match and seldom gets beyond the fourth tee.

There's the retired colonel who tries to recall all the Kashmir posts he visited beginning with a certain letter, the mathematician who anesthetizes himself with double crostics, and the libidinous lad who catalogs old boudoir conquests.

These and hundreds of others wrote to London literary agent Hilary Rubinstein when he let it be known in a BBC interview that he was compiling a bedside anthology for insomniacs.

One listener suggested transferring the radio tapes of old political broadcasts to cassettes for do-it-yourself therapy when needed. And instead of a later, late mtnv, pleaded another bug-eyed dawn buster, why not have the BBC run "a festival in the early hours of all its most boring shows?"

"I was absolutely astonished at the response," said Rubinstein, an insomniac himself who tentatively has titled his work "Z-Z-Z-Z-Z." The idea for the book came to him one restless night and has kept him awake ever since.

NEW ENZYME MAY REDUCE SURGERY NEED

CHICAGO (AP) — About a quarter of all Americans have bad enough backaches to go to a doctor about them.

For a fraction, surgery is required, sometimes involving fusion of a portion of the spine.

Over the past few decades, the time in bed required has dropped for some patients to a day or so, compared with the two or three weeks or even months they formerly were kept down.

The time still varies, however. Those who require more extensive fusion — involving several vertebrae — have, of course, to stay in bed longer.

There are indications that a recently developed enzyme which can be injected in the spine for certain problems with the disks may further reduce the need for spinal surgery.

This enzyme, called chymopapain, is derived from papaya. It is being used in only a few medical centers, pending further approval by the Food and Drug Administration before it is generally available.

Dr. Leon L. Wiltse, a faculty member at the University of California Medical School at Irvine and staff member at Long Beach Hospital, said in an interview that orthopedic surgeons try to treat backaches conservatively, trying to relieve the pain without turning to surgery.

"We're not fusing nearly as many spines as formerly," Wiltse said, although he added that some orthopedic surgeons might disagree.

Fusion involves transplanting part of the ilium found in the hip bone, or of the tibia, the calf bone, to the spine to stabilize a diseased or injured portion. Artificial devices, such as metal rods or plates and springs, also may be used.

Dr. Paul R. Meyer Jr., a member of the Northwestern University Medical School faculty and director of the spinal cord injury unit at Northwestern Memorial Hospital, said spinal fusion today is most commonly used to correct idiopathic scoliosis — curvature of the spine from an unknown cause.

Meyer outlined several other conditions for which fusion is sometimes required. Among them is degenerative arthritis. This occurs in everybody, starting in middle age, and does not cause any problem in most people.

When it does, it often can be treated successfully with aspirin and exercise and only occasionally requires fusion.

Fusion also is done for the so-called "slipped disk" or "ruptured disk," Meyer said that perhaps only 2 per cent of those who think their backache is caused by this problem actually have it.

"We're not fusing nearly as many spines as formerly," Wiltse said, although he added that some orthopedic surgeons might disagree.

Fusion involves transplanting part of the ilium found in the hip bone, or of the tibia, the calf bone, to the spine to stabilize a diseased or injured portion. Artificial devices, such as metal rods or plates and springs, also may be used.

Dr. Paul R. Meyer Jr., a member of the Northwestern University Medical School faculty and director of the spinal cord injury unit at Northwestern Memorial Hospital, said spinal fusion today is most commonly used to correct idiopathic scoliosis — curvature of the spine from an unknown cause.

Meyer outlined several other conditions for which fusion is sometimes required. Among them is degenerative arthritis. This occurs in everybody, starting in middle age, and does not cause any problem in most people.

When it does, it often can be treated successfully with aspirin and exercise and only occasionally requires fusion.

Fusion also is done for the so-called "slipped disk" or "ruptured disk," Meyer said that perhaps only 2 per cent of those who think their backache is caused by this problem actually have it.

INSOMNIAC'S BOOK PUTS YOU TO SLEEP

LONDON (AP) — A stockbroker in Surrey fighting a sleepless night likes to fancy himself a sensuous bumble bee buzzing from blossom to blossom in dewy meadows of dawn.

The buzzing, in particular, he finds most soothing.

A vicar in the West Country in search of sleep delivers last Sunday's sermon from his pillow and usually corks off in less time than anyone in the congregation did.

Then there's the suburban housewife who tries to count all the a's in the Lord's Prayer, and the chap who replays his toughest golf match and seldom gets beyond the fourth tee.

There's the retired colonel who tries to recall all the Kashmir posts he visited beginning with a certain letter, the mathematician who anesthetizes himself with double crostics, and the libidinous lad who catalogs old boudoir conquests.

These and hundreds of others wrote to London literary agent Hilary Rubinstein when he let it be known in a BBC interview that he was compiling a bedside anthology for insomniacs.

One listener suggested transferring the radio tapes of old political broadcasts to cassettes for do-it-yourself therapy when needed. And instead of a later, late mtnv, pleaded another bug-eyed dawn buster, why not have the BBC run "a festival in the early hours of all its most boring shows?"

"I was absolutely astonished at the response," said Rubinstein, an insomniac himself who tentatively has titled his work "Z-Z-Z-Z-Z." The idea for the book came to him one restless night and has kept him awake ever since.

NEW ENZYME MAY REDUCE SURGERY NEED

CHICAGO (AP) — About a quarter of all Americans have bad enough backaches to go to a doctor about them.

For a fraction, surgery is required, sometimes involving fusion of a portion of the spine.

Over the past few decades, the time in bed required has dropped for some patients to a day or so, compared with the two or three weeks or even months they formerly were kept down.

The time still varies, however. Those who require more extensive fusion — involving several vertebrae — have, of course, to stay in bed longer.

There are indications that a recently developed enzyme which can be injected in the spine for certain problems with the disks may further reduce the need for spinal surgery.

This enzyme, called chymopapain, is derived from papaya. It is being used in only a few medical centers, pending further approval by the Food and Drug Administration before it is generally available.

Dr. Leon L. Wiltse, a faculty member at the University of California Medical School at Irvine and staff member at Long Beach Hospital, said in an interview that orthopedic surgeons try to treat backaches conservatively, trying to relieve the pain without turning to surgery.

"We're not fusing nearly as many spines as formerly," Wiltse said, although he added that some orthopedic surgeons might disagree.
